

Metropolitain

Modelled after the central train station in Paris, this diner offers hearty home cooking at very decent prices and reasonable portions. Set against an urban backdrop, its version of the slow-cooked duck dish comes with a side of sarladaise potatoes – a perfect rendition of domestic flavours served up in a casual dining environment. With an alfresco patio and open kitchen, you can people watch just like a true Parisian. Bon appétit! $168. 46 High St, Sai Ying Pun, 6271 6102; french-creations.com.
