The French chatter around the bar gives it a genuine Parisian feel. The background jazzy music and dimmed lighting create a true hideaway in the suburbs.

The drinks: the immediate entrance has a wine-bar ambience. There are four reds and whites available by the glass – all French, of course – as well as a rosé, prosecco and champagne. There's also beer on tap and the usual range of liqueurs and spirits. There's no cocktail list, but the barman whipped up a fruity vodka cocktail and martini on request.
